Hi [REDACTED]

I hope the end of the semester has gone well for you. I'm an editor with Archeota and I've been assigned to your article on [REDACTED]. Really nice piece! I have made some suggestions and comments in the Google Doc, mostly just editing for clarity and updating some citations.

When you get the chance, please let me know what you think. If you object to any of my changes, I'm happy to work with you on it. We are aiming to have edits finished by June 1.

Hi [REDACTED]

Just wanted to bump this up in your inbox in case it got buried in the end-of-semester rush! The June 1 deadline is coming up, so please let me know when you've had a chance to look through the edits. I'm happy to answer any questions.

Best,
Michelle

Hi Michelle,

I should have confirmed receipt of your email above, apologies! I just went through and made your edits. Thanks so much for your careful read-through, which improved the piece so much.

Is anything else needed on my end?

Warmly,
[REDACTED]

Hi [REDACTED]

So glad the edits were helpful, and no worries at all about the delay!

On my end, after rereading I've made a few more small edits in the doc, mostly in the [REDACTED] paragraph. Nothing major, but please take a look and let me know if anything doesn't work for you.

I also noticed we'll need citations for the book and the documentary mentioned in the piece. Could you send along the full bibliographic details for those when you get a chance? If you have them handy, we can get everything finalized well before the June 1 deadline.

Thanks again for a great piece!

Best,
Michelle

Hi [REDACTED]

I hope you're having a great weekend!

No need to look at this or reply today, but since our deadline is Monday evening, I just wanted to leave a quick note here so it's ready for you whenever you start your work week.

Whenever you get a chance on Monday, please take a quick peek at those last minor [REDACTED] edits and drop the book/documentary citations into the doc so we can get everything wrapped up. Sorry I didn't catch those on my first run.

Enjoy the rest of your weekend!

Best,
Michelle

Hi [REDACTED]

I hope the end of the semester has gone well for you. I'm an editor with Archeota and I've been assigned to your article on [REDACTED]. Really nice piece! I have made some suggestions and comments in the Google Doc, mostly just editing for clarity. In the sentence with "ten, twenty, or even larger murals," I was unsure if you meant to say "more murals" or if you meant some artists work on unusually large murals, so we can work more on that sentence if I got the meaning wrong.

When you get the chance, please let me know what you think. If you object to any of my rewordings, I'm happy to work with you on it. We are aiming to have edits finished by June 1.
